The Records of the Inaugural Committee of 1953 were transferred by the National Archives in October 1985 and June 2013. This collection consists of Federal records and contains the records of the committee established to organize the festivities surrounding the inauguration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower in January 1957. The records include the subject and correspondence files of the Chairman, the Executive Secretary and the Director of Public Relations. It also contains the working papers of various subcommittees which handled specific aspects of the program, such as the inaugural ball and the inaugural parade.

Materials are divided into fourteen series. Documents within each series are arranged in the order in which they received. This is roughly, but not strictly, alphabetical. The series are:
